

December Newsletter 2023

Welcome to my December Newsletter 2023 and Christmas day is coming and before you know it will be over, so it is time to build those memories and have some fun.

Then it is resolutions. I tend to make goals instead and life changes, each year, I now choose a word each year, and for this year 2024, will be the same. I started to create a vision board for the new year. I have a lot of plans.

I will be making a lot more printables, and plan to have my new book up and published, and want to do more to build my fitness and just have a good reset and get more of my life together.

This is from our trip to Shepperton and was such fun and want to do more trips like this. I like to explore and if you like to recommend places, then comment on the blog I have uploaded my newsletter to, in the comments below, as I want to discover more of the UK and would love to do little trips, and so watch this space, more vlogs, blogs and books to come.

Links to all my channels, blogs and social media

Main Youtube channel

Secondary Channels

Pinterest