

What to do after Christmas

- Look for products that didn't sell for next year as there will be a sale on items on the Highstreet, such as Card shops for Christmas cards, gift tags and wrapping paper and decor.
- Go through decorations and put them in a safe place and bubble wrap, if any of them are made of glass or China, and label them and get rid of any that worn or donate some that you have not used.
- Make meals out of your leftovers by giving food bags as gifts for your guests.
- Have your family help tidy up and wash the Christmas bedding, the plates and cooking items used for Christmas for the next year and we have a table cloth, placemats and coasters, to clean.
- Write thank you cards to those who gifted you and your children or send them message; on social media or via other channels.
- If any gifts were a gift and didn't work make sure you return it and if you've given an electrical items for example, keep the receipt and see how many days you can return them and what the warranty is
- Donate food like mince pies if they are in date to a foodbank along with any tinned food and stock cubes, sauces and anything that won't go off too soon and do for another family in need.
- Put your music listed for Christmas and Youtube is a great resource and put on a memory stick so you have access to it or if it is Records, Cassettes or CD on a shelf so they are always available.
